COMMUNITY LIVING AND SUPPORT (CLS)

Community Living and Support (CLS) services are designed to empower individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) to live as independently as possible within their communities. These services focus on fostering independence, enhancing quality of life, and promoting meaningful engagement in daily activities, whether at home or in the community.

WHO IT'S FOR

- Individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) seeking greater independence in their daily lives.
- Families or caregivers looking for additional support to help their loved ones thrive in a community-based setting.

HOW IT WORKS

1 Individualized Support

One-on-one staffing is provided to assist individuals with daily living tasks, personal care, and skill-building activities tailored to their unique needs and goals.

2 Parent or Staff Collaboration

Services can be delivered by trained professionals or supported by family caregivers, ensuring a flexible and personalized approach.

3 Community Engagement

Individuals are encouraged to participate in community activities, such as recreational programs, social events, or volunteer opportunities, to build connections and enhance social skills.

4 Safety and Well-being

CLS prioritizes the overall safety of individuals by implementing strategies and supports that promote a secure living environment and address potential risks.
